

She's Acting Single

Gary Stewart

I've seen men look at her before
And they think, I don't see
I'd like to think it makes me proud
But I'm only fooling me

And I know she'll be lookin' back
The minute I'm not there
While she pours herself on some stranger
I pour myself a drink somewhere

She's acting single, and I'm drinking doubles
I hide my pain, I drown my troubles
And my heart is breaking like the tiny bubbles
She's acting single, and I'm drinking doubles

I know all she plans to do
But I don't know where or when
And if I ask who that stranger was She'll just say, "An old friend"

"I'm not weak", I tell myself
Lord, I stay because I'm strong
But the truth is I'm not man enough
To stop her from doing me wrong

She's acting single, and I'm drinking doubles
I hide my pain, I drown my troubles
And my heart is breaking like the tiny bubbles
She's acting single, I'm drinking doubles

She's acting single, I'm drinking doubles
I hide my pain, and I drown my troubles
My heart is breaking like the tiny bubbles
She's acting single, I'm drinking doubles
She's acting single, I'm drinking doubles
