

Put You Back Together

Gavin James

I slept off, baby I didn't know enough
Some things are better left unsaid, but I've not said enough
All I know is we shouldn't let this go
We'll be forever tripping over every thing we've got
But I want you and I want you to know

If this house burns to the ground into ashes
We will hold it together
We will hold it together
If this world starts to break your heart into pieces
I will make you feel better and try to put you back together
Oh

It's always on the table, so tell me if you're able
To see me like I see you every time you wake up
Well this is the bed we made
I know it's a little strange
To give me all your aches and pains
And I'll do the same

If this house burns to the ground into ashes
We will hold it together
We will hold it together
If this world starts to break your heart into pieces
I will make you feel better and try to put you back together
Oh

I, I, I wonder
If you're walking down all the same lanes
I know it's not the easy way to go
But I know
Stay

And if this house burns to the ground into ashes
We will hold it together
We will hold it together
And if this world starts to break your heart into pieces
I will make you feel better and try to put you back together
I'll try to put you back together
Try to put you back together
Oh
