

A Memory Away

Gene Watson

I woke up this morning thinking about those times
You and love and I were more only on my mind
I let myself go drifting way back in my dreams
Let my memory bring you back to me

Your love is just a memory away
I can count on yesterday
I can have you anytime I want to
You're always just a memory away

Love can change a beggar make a poor man king
Love can build a castle out of almost anything
Minds can still work miracles that even I can see
When my memory brings you back to me

Your love is just a memory away
I can count on yesterday
I can have you anytime I want to
You're always just a memory away
You're always just a memory away
