

Some Fools

Gene Watson

Some fools hang on when they know that love's gone
They'll cling to a memory for years
And some fools start drinking to keep them from thinking
It must help them fight back the tears

And some fools don't ever get over the pain
Of loving somebody so strong
Some fools like me, we deal with our misery
By writing it down in a song

Now some fools will lie and say they don't cry
They'll tell you they don't really care
But the same fools will call and let it ring off the wall
Knowing there's nobody there

And some fools in love go through all of the above
And still go about it all wrong
Those fools just like me deal with their misery
By singing these sad country songs

And some fools don't ever get over the pain
Of loving somebody so strong
Those fools just like me, deal with our misery
By listening to sad country songs
Those fools just like me, deal with our misery
By listening to sad country songs
