

Somewhere Beyond Nowhere

Gene Watson

As daylight was dawning, I woke up this morning
Still feeling the pain from last night
And the dream of a woman with a beckoning body
Another dream that didn't turn out right
I've had many dreams and tried many schemes
That keep dying as I'm trying to win
With no feel of belonging once more this morning
I woke up in nowhere again

Somewhere beyond nowhere, there's somewhere I wish I could find
I keep combing the beaches, searching the reaches of my mind
Is the answer within me? Wish someone could show me a sign
And point me to somewhere so I could leave nowhere behind

Back alleys are gloomy, the city park's roomy
I've tried to sleep there before
But the benches are hard and they don't have the contours
And a body wakes up stiff and sore
So I sleep where I can with the darkness at hand
Whispering the mysteries of time
Is there hope in the future with someone who will care
And somewhere a place I can find

Somewhere beyond nowhere, there's somewhere I wish I could find
I keep combing the beaches, searching the reaches of my mind
Is the answer within me? Wish someone could show me a sign
And point me to somewhere so I could leave nowhere behind
And point me to somewhere so I could leave nowhere behind
