

Sea Between Our Hearts

George Jones

There's a sea between our hearts where the waves are cold and dark

And the undertow of loneliness gets strong

My heart's caught in the tide of a love that you've denied

For you're colder than this sea we're drifting on.

The sea between our hearts is dark and stormy

And the harbor of your love is the only haven for me

If I only had a chart to guide me to your heart

I'd anchor there and sail the sea no more.

There's a shore of happiness that somehow we have missed

And now you've drifted off to someone new

But I haunt the lonely sea with a crew of memories

For the compass of my heart still points to you.

The sea between our hearts is dark and stormy

And the harbor of your love is the only haven for me

If I only had a chart to guide me to your heart

I'd anchor there and sail the sea no more...
