I'll always want to fall for you
I'll never want to feel this broken too
Blown here on a fire to you
It's both and more of all we do

Seems like I never really know
Just what it is that brings us down to this
All around no need to show
Revelations come and go

And when you want the time to Work this world out right You know it's hard, so won't you Cry on my shoulder

We lie between the shores of hope Digging ditches, hidden rises and unknown Pure golden days would come One light, so bright, so I go

When you can't change what you see Can't define your enemy Looking for a vaccine Won't you save yourself....