

This Thing Called Love

Gerry and the Pacemakers

What is this thing that makes the bluebirds sing
Makes all the stars shine bright above
If you know the answer, then you'll know
That you have found this thing called love

When things don't go just like they ought to do
Then all at once, it seems all right
No, it's not magic, 'cause it happens
When you've got this thing called love

Love can make the rain stop
For a lover's heart
And nothing in this whole wide world
Can stop the love you start

It makes the days apart so hard to bear
And time goes fast when you are near
But don't deny it, when you know
That you have found this thing called love

What is this thing that makes the bluebirds sing
Makes all the stars shine bright above
If you know the answer, then you'll know
That you have found this thing called love