

Spain

Ghost Mice

At the end of the street there is a statue of Christopher Columbus
He's got his arms up in the air and he's pointing us towards home
There's people selling pigeons and they're selling squirrels for pets
There's a tiny toy piano being played by a toad
And there's parrots in the trees and the beach is blue and green
And the hills are thick with plants that we've never seen
We sat on that bench together
It is the world's largest
Bright mosaic tiles crafted by some great dead artist
All of this is nice and all of this is great
But to tell the truth I'm thinking about Bloomington today
Yes, all of this is nice, yes all of this is great,
To be honest all I can think about is Bloomington today!