

Time Will Tell

Gin Wigmore

Chains, can they be worn down
Blame in losing you
Lay all of your heartache on me
Heavy is the hand

Please, will you come closer
To see that I've broken down
I need my father
To be a part of who you are
I breathe to hear you in my heart
Take me home again

The year goes by
And our heart bleeds the same
Will I tell my son your vision fades
"Time will tell," my father said
"Time will tell," my father said

As you get older, you see
Good memories live on
But this sadness never leaves
Even though I'm not alone
I hurt for the places you be gone
Take me home

As the year goes by
And I will bleed the same
Will I tell my son your vision fades
"Time will tell," my father said
"Time will tell," my father said

Why was I stolen to sleep
