

Let Go

Glen Campbell

Moonlight and roses are the goin' thing
Champagne, a little love, and a weddin' ring
But every time she leaves it's gonna break your heart
It's happened before, don't come to me, I don't want no part

Let go, it ain't worth it if it hurts you
Let go, you don't need it if-a she don't care
Like a good old wine or rock 'n' roll
If it feels real good let it move your soul
But if it hurts to say her name, baby let go

First time for both of you makes for urgent love
It gives a feel that it's all unreal, it's from up above
Tellin' some small secrets, dreamin' dreams by phone
And terrified there'll be a time she won't be alone

Well let go, it ain't worth it if it hurts you
Let go, you don't need it if-a she don't care
Like a good old wine or rock 'n' roll
If it feels real good let it move your soul
But if it hurts to say her name, baby let go

Walk away, leave well alo-one, you know you should
To be in love has as much that's bad as it has it's good
To counsel friends ain't wise but you sure need to see
You should know that before you, she di-id the same to me

Well let me tell ya, let go, it ain't worth it if it hurts you
And let go, you don't need it if-a she don't care
Like a good old wine or rock 'n' roll
If it feels real good let it move your soul
But if it hurts to say her name, baby let go

Like a good old wine or rock 'n' roll
If it feels real good let it move your soul
But if it hurts to say her name, baby let go
Like a good old wine or rock 'n' roll
If it feels real good let it move your soul
But if it hurts to say her name, baby let go, oh-oh
