Two Hearts

Glenn Frey

They looked into each other's eyes and saw an answer
Some call it fate, some call it destiny but they believed
That it was more than just a chance they had to take
They only knew that it was meant to be
He looked into the night to try to find a place to hide
She made excuses to the ones who said they cared
They fell into each other's arms, they knew the passion
This is the night they do what only lovers dare
They got two hearts beatin' louder than thunder
Two lovers tryin' to make it as one
Two hearts beatin' louder than thunder
Tonight, they're gonna do what must be done
What must be done
The night is filled with every kind of new emotion
With every moment comes a chance they might delay
Congratulations to the ones who said they loved her
No consolation to the ones who stayed away
Why must young lovers always hide what should be natural?
Why must they always do what others tell them to?
They'll find a place to hide, a place to take their passion
They'll find a way to do what only lovers do
'Cause they got two hearts beatin' louder than thunder
Two lovers tryin' to make it as one
Two hearts beatin' louder than thunder
Tonight they're gonna do what must be done
'Cause they got two hearts beatin' louder than thunder
Two lovers tryin' to make it as one
Two hearts beatin' louder than thunder
Tonight they're gonna do what must be done
I love you, yes I do
Love me too
They got two hearts beatin' louder than thunder
Two lovers tryin' to make it as one
Two hearts beatin' louder than thunder
Tonight they're gonna do what must be done
'Cause they got two hearts, two hearts
Two hearts, two hearts
They got two hearts, baby
They're beatin' louder, louder, louder
They're beatin' louder, louder, louder
