

Say Something

Go-Jo

I wish I could read your mind, but I can't Just know that it's alright to put your heart in my hands

It's okay to battle your emotions
But you don't have fight em all alone
Just call on me the door is always open
When you're feeling low

All you gotta do is say something (say something)
I'll fight the world just to make things right
You don't have to run away from it (away from it)
Don't let the dark days steal your shine
You been hurt for way to long
And when you need someone in your life
All you gotta do is say something (say something)
All you gotta do is say something (say something)

Say something
Baby, say something
Say something
Baby, say something

I'll always be there for you when you cry
Cause' now I know the answer lies deep in your eyes

Its okay to battle your emotions
But you don't have fight em all alone
Just call on me the door is always open
When you're feeling low

All you gotta do is say something (say something)
I'll fight the world just to make things right
You don't have to run away from it (away from it)
Don't let the dark days steal your shine
You been hurt for way to long
And when you need someone in your life
All you gotta do is say something (say something)
All you gotta do is say something (say something)