First of all you will eat all the bodies
No matter they pray for freedom they'll kill you Forward you crush those going backward
The wolves are now your lords
Voracious flames upon the earth

Second step you eat all the creation Swallow the trees the lakes and all the valleys Crush the moon, and drink the rivers flowing Deep rolling ocean blow Burning all that lives

They teach you how to conquer and rule the world
The towers that you built so strong, no man can touch
They tell you how to find and raise the fears and let them grow inside of your heart they need no walls

Is there a chance you face the void inside? Winds of doom will blow your pride away

Behold the bright lights coming down on time Before these altars black, made from your sacrifice You take for granted what's been there for ages Inside the womb the new blood gets ready to fight

The buildings of our fathers crumbling in dark vibrations
Wolf down the one that made us all
No hope, you wolf down the earth