

Tides

Gone West

The sun dips low, the moon gets high
We're just waves rolling with the tides, tides
Every time we say goodbye
We say hello to what's on the other side, tides

Rain falls on a wildfire
The green grows from dirt
That's black as midnight
What a wild life
Oh, friends come and friends go
You win some, you lose some
That's just the way that the wind blows
And the wind blows

The sun dips low, the moon gets high
We're just waves rolling with the tides, tides
Every time we say goodbye
We say hello to what's on the other side, tides

Into the horizon we sail together
Knowing there's nothing that last forever
And this too will pass, every wave will crash
They try to say that the end don't hurt
The water's wild but we just surfed
Endlessly, we'll ride the tide

Standstill, cause the time flies
Years disappear like the clouds in the plain of the blue sky
And it's alright

The sun dips low, the moon gets high
We're just waves rolling with the tides, tides
Every time we say goodbye
We say hello to what's on the other side, tides
