

Hole In My Soul

Gov't Mule

Walking round in a haze, people, they know the way I feel
Been forty-seven days since I lost a love so real
I just can't shake this feeling, it all seems so surreal
Ashes and embers from the fire of yesterday
Can't brighten up the darkness, can't help me find my way
I know you can't hear me, but I cry out to you anyway

Since you been gone, spinning out of control
You cut me so deep, I might never be whole
We had firm foundation, it took so long to build
Now there's a hole in my soul that can never be filled

I remember all those nights, the way you softly called my name
But I took our love for granted, I only got myself to blame
Now you're gone forever and I'm drowning in the shame

Since you been gone, I'm spinning out of control
Cut me so deep, I might never be whole
We had firm foundation, it took so long to build
Now there's a hole in my soul that can never be filled
