

Silhouette

Grace Carter

My heart is burning with jealousy
You lit the flame and you blinded me
You let me smoulder then put me out
You stepped right on me, you left no doubt

Through all you've done, I deserve some peace
Now I'm on my knees

There's a fire in your eyes when you're holding a cigarette
But you don't hold me, no you don't hold me
You keep blowing smoke till you fade to a silhouette
You should've told me you didn't want me

Yeah, yeah
You should've told me you didn't want me
Yeah, yeah
You should've told me you didn't want me

You wear my heart down and my belief
You're in my chest and it's hard to breathe
It's like addiction, it's all I know
I'm just so used to not letting go

After all you've done I deserve some peace
I'm on my knees

'Cause there's a fire in your eyes when you're holding a cigarette
But you don't hold me, no you don't hold me
You keep blowing smoke till you fade to a silhouette
You should've told me you didn't want me

Yeah, yeah
You should've told me you didn't want me
Yeah, yeah
You should've told me you didn't want me

Oh it's a dark and twisted fate
'Cause I'm the one you never crave
And you'll never taste, you'll never crave
'Cause you'll never change

There's a fire in my eyes when you're holding a cigarette
'Cause you won't hold me, no you don't hold me
You keep blowing smoke till you fade to a silhouette
You should've told me you didn't want me

Yeah, yeah
You should've told me you didn't want me
Yeah, yeah
You should've told me you didn't want me
