

testosterone

Grace Davies

I recognize your whiskey lips but not that perfume
Recite your lines then go off script, yeah, you always you do
You're only a man and you've got your needs
How could I understand what I'll never be
You don't think with your heart when you're thinking of me
And I can't do this anymore

Oh, you're the only one who hurts me most
You lie, you leave and don't pick up your phone
And now you're blaming your testosterone
Like that's an excuse, and you go cold
Don't show emotion keep your heart like stone
'Cos if you showed it all your boys would know
Yeah, you can blame it on testosterone
But I'm blaming you

You only tell me that you love me when we're in the dark
And if I ask you for commitment I'm pushing too hard
You're only a man and you've got your needs
How could I understand what I'll never be
You don't think with your heart when you're thinking of me
And I can't do this anymore

Oh, you're the only one who hurts me most
You lie, you leave and don't pick up your phone
And now you're blaming your testosterone
Like that's an excuse, and you go cold
Don't show emotion keep your heart like stone
'Cos if you showed it all your boys would know
Yeah, you can blame it on testosterone
But I'm blaming you

No, I'm not the only one who's hurting most You've got emotion in there boy, I know
Baby please, don't let a good thing go
