

Taciturn

Gracenote

You could be lost and not even know it
You could be found but you still try to hide it
You might have the best but you don't even notice
They say count your blessings but you're never contended

'Cause you want this, you want that
Everything your eye can catch
Taciturn, my eyes are burning
Tired of your speech, words don't match
You only want everything you don't have

What can you do with two
That you can do with one
I'm not that fool for you
To say that I'm the only one
You only want everything you don't have
You only want everything you don't have
You only want everything you don't have
You don't have

You call her at night, you call me at daylight
I've connected the dots since the day after Christmas
Boy, you can't pull the wool, oh over my eyes
I know what's happening, I know all your sick lies

You want this, you want that
Everything your eye can catch
Taciturn, my eyes are burning
Tired of your speech, words don't match
You only want everything you don't have
You only want everything you don't have
You only want everything you don't have
You don't have

It goes to show you'll never know
The afternoon turns into evening
When you're too much busy
Taking pictures of the sunset and the morning
Taciturnly eyes are burning

What can you do with two
That you can do with one
I'm not that fool for you
To say that I'm the only one

You only want everything you don't have
You only want everything you don't have
You only want everything you don't have
You only want everything you don't have

You only want everything you don't have
You only want everything you don't have
You only want everything you don't have
You only want everything, everything you don't have
