Last Few Days

Graham Colton

I'm not trying to win you back
Change your course or veer your track
I don't claim to have what you're looking for
I don't know what I should do
Sit around and wait for you
I drive 'til I get to your front door

But these last few days
Every wall around me is just falling down
And all I want to say,
I would give my life to tell you here right now
Here right now

I'm thinking what you're wearing out
What you both are talking about
All the things he does that makes you smile
And I don't have a plan wrote down
Where we'll be a year from now
Maybe you should stay a little while

But these last few days
Every wall around me is just coming down
All I want to say
I would give my life to tell you here right now

But these last few days
Every wall around me is just coming down
And all I want to say,
I would give my life to tell you here right now
To have you here right now
Now, now, now
