

It's there in the morning
It's everywhere in the night
Their eyes are open
They seem so real
So I wonder if they're watching
Or if sanity's just not here
I haven't seen them since no
But I've got something so much better here

We've been down this road before
It goes deeper than you'll ever never know

It's just like staring at the sun
But it will tear you up and it will bring you down
It's just like staring at the sun
But it will tear you up and it will bring you down

So wait for a while
It won't come now
It's easy to forget it
When the greens are turning red
When nothing seems to be right
And the tolling bells just cry and cry

You had reasons to get in to every mind
Would you stay around to save another one

It's just like staring at the sun
But it will tear you up and it will bring you down
It's just like staring at the sun
But it will tear you up and it will bring you down

Don't you need a little more to feel it?
Don't you feel a little like you need it?
Don't you need a little more to feel it?
Don't you feel a little like you need it?

It's just like staring at the sun
But it will tear you up and it will bring you down
It's just like staring at the sun
But it will tear you up and it will bring you down

Don't you need a little more to feel it?
Don't you feel a little like you need it?
Don't you need a little more to feel it?
Don't you feel a little like you need it?

You struggle to get up now
Your ways won't show no luck
Through bright summer nights
I see you leave
