

August Love

Grayscale

Beautiful things don't ask for attention
Its words like that you'll never understand
While we lay here
Playing the mix tape of our memories
While we watch the sunset

Let's pretend this isn't how it ends
Walked through the garden of your hearts' plans
August love, you won't remember it, but I can

Cause I've been playing chess on a checkerboard
Trying to scrape the pieces back together
Of the shattered glass that made up the light
I saw you in, but don't see you in anymore

Let's pretend this isn't how it ends
Walked through the garden of your hearts' plans
August love, you won't remember it, but I can

(Do you remember watching the sunset?)
I'll live this miserable life alone
(In the backyard)
I fake a smile everyday
Cause I know
I'm nothing to no one
I'll never be what you want
Just listen to me when I say I can't be here anymore
I'm nothing to no one
I'll never be what you want
