

Forever Yours

Grayscale

Stained glass patterns porcelain
Your watercolors running
All your paintings are fading from the walls
Miss, I miss the way you breathe
The way you twitch in your sleep
Your smile, your straight teeth
And the scars along on your cheeks

I should have wrote that letter
You looked beautiful in white but I stayed home
Could never live without you
But I guess I'll have to
You're gone, gone, gone

All the promises, vows under the covers
We would play pretend my love but it was real to me
Now I waste my days away, I know I can't recover
There's no love lost, but I'll be forever yours

Walk the grove we'd always go
Where the summer made our shadows tall
I look out for them, but now there's only one
Run my hands through winter grass
Pretend I feel your warmth again
But the grass is cold and dead
My pain might never end

That cathedral hall and that ivy wall
Aisle I'll never know
Could never live without you
But I guess I'll have to
You're gone, gone, gone

All the promises, vows under the covers
We would play pretend my love but it was real to me
Now I waste my days away, I know I can't recover
There's no love lost, but I'll be forever yours

Forever yours, forever yours
No love lost, but I'll be forever yours
Forever yours, forever yours
No love lost, but I'll be forever yours

Place my bouquet of old regrets
Drop the weight of my sins
The ground takes in the better man I could have been

All the promises, vows under the covers
We would play pretend my love but it was real to me
Now I waste my days away, I know I can't recover
There's no love lost, but I'll be forever yours

Forever yours, forever yours
No love lost, but I'll be forever yours
Forever yours, forever yours
No love lost, but I'll be forever yours
