Palmistry

Great Lake Swimmers

You see by the lines on my hands I've been carrying a heavy load You follow them across my palms Where they run like roads

Won't you come and read the future, turn it on Won't you tell me how I will not feel so lonely?

And read the patterns on my skin Let the fire somehow get in See my heart line is intact So this is what I lacked

Won't you come and read the future, turn it on Won't you tell me how I will not feel so lonely?

Under the weight of this balmy night Tell me something so divine If there's a future in these lines Bring it into the light

Won't you come and read the future, turn it on Won't you tell me how I will not feel so lonely?
