I've had enough of this red light I've been waiting here for so long Driving on like reruns and feeling nothing new Time has stopped Resting some for this town it's comforting to know nothing new If I could only make a sound Holding the stars like paintings we are Pull one down for me Colors alive like radiance Swimming back to your sea I can't explain this feeling that's been grounding me for so lo nq Keeping faith I move on Praying for something soon How long must I scream to the guards to let me out To the past I'm anchored