

Like A Dog

Greg Brown

Like a dog, like a dog, I've sat by your door,

Hoping for any scraps you might throw.

And I whine sometimes 'cause I need your love.

And I have loved you like a dog.

Like a dog, like a dog, I'm always there,

While you are out gallivanting somewhere.

One little scratch means everything.

And I have loved you like a dog.

Maybe I shouldn't admit it.

Maybe I shouldn't have tried.

You want somethin', honey, I'll get it.

A dog is not burdened with pride.

Like a dog, like a dog, I leap with joy

When you call my name, call me a good boy.

I wish I had a dog's heart instead of this one.

For I have loved you like a dog.

I have loved you like a dog.

Aaaaaooooooooo-
