

Blue Minded

Gretta Ray

To calculate the time that I spend
Counting all the colours in your irises
I feared, may take as long as you felt
That it took me, to make a move

Traveling along the coastal line
Moving on the open road in yellow light
For you, I, the fooling heart like you wouldn't believe
I don't understand, how you do what you do to me

This is the place we were both raised
And in surrounding sounds, I hear
Voices of my youth asking why I strayed
And how long am I staying

Here and now
All my walls come right down
Step back a pace and pause
Once near familiar shores
Something in the water draws me back
There was something in the water when we met
Out in a world of green, feel what it is to be
Blue minded, blue minded

I'm loving waking up to you
You are like a holiday I planned that fell through
But I take it now be my sweet escape, baby
Forget the protocol

The land we're on we both grew strong
You say we're all scared kids
Inside the bodies of adults attempting to keep on
To find someone to lean on

Here and now
All your walls come right down
Where we can heal and hide
Where there are trees for skies
And as you light a fire in the living room
I feel you light a fire inside me too
Come back to what you need, know what it is to be
Blue minded, blue minded

Tell me when you want to go
To where we want to be the most
Where our senses come alive
Blue minds think alike
Say the word and we will go
To where we want to be the most
To where our senses come alive
Blue minds think alike
Blue minds think alike

When we are here and now
All our walls come right down
Where we can heal and hide
Where there are trees for skies

And as you light a fire in the living room
I feel you light a fire inside me too
Come back to what you need, feel what it is to breathe
Come back to what you need, know what it is to be
Blue minded