

Heal You In Time

Gretta Ray

When I was a child, I made you mine
Learned the depths, of your design
You were vibrant and wild, appeared so bold
So full of life, invulnerable
From day one you took me in
Went on to shape me into all I am
And I came to believe, I knew you best
But I didn't think ahead

Riddled with excitement, who could have foretold?
You were far from eternal by default
All was calm until the day
They came in thinking they could pave the way
They, the demons that take, won't hesitate
To feel the fire and seal our fate

I want to hold on
To all that you are for longer
But I can feel you changing as you age
And I know the way that you were
Isn't the way you will be
But keep hoping I can make you fine
And heal you in time

Though at home in your warmth, when you grow cold
The way you wrap me in your arms, it won't get old
Though a valiant force, one to be reckoned with You're gracious at best with only love to give
But I have watched as over time
They've made a slave of you and run you dry
They've broken you down, hollowed you out
Is there nothing left but doubt now?

I want to hold on
To all that you are for longer
But I can feel you changing as we age
And I know the way that you were
Isn't the way you will be
But keep hoping I can make you fine
And heal you in time

All's not lost if I can make you fine
You're all I've got, I want to heal you in time
All's not lost if I can make you fine
You're all I want, I've got to heal you in time
All's not lost if I can make you fine
You're all I've got, I want to heal you in time
All's not lost if I can make you fine
I've got to heal you in time

I want to hold on
To all that you are for longer
But I can feel you changing as we age
Although the way that you were
Isn't the way you will be
I'll keep hoping I can make you fine
And heal you in time, in time, in time

Heal you in time, in time, in time
