

Day Is Gone

Greyhaven

Speak and reveal to me the depths you're hiding in so I can be with you

All the noise is gone, feel it all go quiet now

Speak and reveal to me the depths you're hiding in so I can be
with you

All the noise is gone, feel it all go quiet now

It suddenly explodes every nerve at once

It suddenly explodes

I'm an empty promise just passing off the blame

Your eyes wander through my faces

It's no wonder it all feels the same

Your eyes wander through my faces

Crashed in swirling heat, I'd hate see blow out in front of me
Fragment light displays; our mirrored hearts collapse and crash

In the years before I know you let her go

Loosely fading ghosts to take her place

Dust to settle in, I wait to feel alone

In the years before I know you let her go

Painted in ash all the words that you said as you walked away

Loosely fading ghosts to take our place

If I could suspend time all together

Would you stay up here forever?

I'm an empty promise just passing off the blame

Your eyes wander through my faces

It's no wonder it all feels the same

Your eyes wander through my faces

Black out throne towers over me

Substance control bleeds in and out

She'll be laughing at me later

But the question stays for now unanswered

Is it always the same with me, I don't remember my nights

Is it always the same damn thing, I don't remember my nights