

She

Greyhaven

You better dust off your sheets before you lay in your bed
You won't lie in it alone, you're never alone
It's getting under your skin, that's where I want to be Hate to say I told you so, you're never alone
Spent years in my bed, now you're making it dirty
I've played in my head
I hate to say that this is true
I've played in my head
I play your game only to lose
I fall asleep with a dagger
I fall asleep with a dagger, back stabber
You've got your skeletons and I do too
He drove a hearse to your house the night that he came through and you fucked
He took my love away, deep in a hole where she's buried today
Yeah, I see it
Yeah, I said I see it
I see the whites behind his eyes
I see the paleness of your skin
I see the sweat drip from your thighs
I can't believe you let him in
I am so tired of my skin
I rip it off
I wear it thin
You make me sick
You make me cringe and when I see him this is it
I never thought I'd find an innocent man
You're sitting naked with a gun to your head
I had no interest in the things that he said
Life seems so bitter when you're better off dead