

Dance of Gurus

Guided by Voices

What'll I do with you, you do with me
(What'll I do with you, you do with me)
What'll I do with you, you do with me
(What'll I do with you, you do with me)

In the city, in the hot middle
A homeless man says, "Buy me a Big Mac"
What'll I do with you, you do with me
(What'll I do with you, you do with me)

He says "party", and throws a fist
Like a winner

It's all the same
I mean the winner and the sinner, all arm in arm
Raise a drink to a planet rich in symbols
What'll I do with you, you do with me
What'll I do with you, you do with me

It's all a game and I'm the sinner
He's the winner, we're arm in arm
No salute to a marcher's boot
That's for beginners
What'll I do with you, you do with me
(What'll I do with you, you do with me)

And legends of the untamed
American west

It's the dance of gurus
Collapsed in laughter
We've had our followers and friends
And the homeless man says
"Yeah, headed home"
