

The Obliteration of Flab Quarv 7

GWAR

Y'know, back in outer space we used to drink - a lot We used to take all kinds of kick-ass drugs And showed blatant disrespect for any authority figures Little did we know we were undermining our entire value system.

..

At that time I was serving in the Masters 3rd Scumdog Legion aboard a planetary infection barge, attempting to obey a host of confusing orders, but mostly satisfying only our lust for slaughter ravingly drunk half the time,

I only realized a battle had started when I heard the roar of the fleets plasma bombardment.
Piling into our armored assault pods we began our descent to the planets pulverized surface.

We were met by a flight of primitive interceptors which we devastated with soaring blast of nuclear hatred, flashing through the debris cloud into the atmosphere below.
The obliteration of Flab Quarv 7 On the horizon was the blazing outlines of a bombed city, the outlying areas dotted with flaming craters and fleeing refugees I vomited out the window and led our battalion on a blazing attack on the non-combatants pulpifying their flesh in a rain of sulfuric plasma burst.

The mass mutilation of a world ensued, with those not being fit for slave labor being herded into gigantic flaming pits.

We laughed as several thousand years of cultural development were wiped out in a single blundering instant.

Gorged on guts, gouged out eyes Captives fill the breeding hive Desecrate their sovereign world

Bloated, bloody, drunken churl Cultures crumble, races die

Stench of midgets fill the sky Smashing skulls with ghastly crunch

Pretty soon we'll break for lunch

Later, as we flew through deep space

Ritually disemboweling our victims

The navigator informed us that we Attacked the wrong planet.

Hehehehehahaha

The obliteration of Flab Quarv 7