After That

Haley Blais

I remember running laps to get to you
Feeling my legs give out
Laying with the Earth behind my back
And shades of blue covered my eyes and mouth

I laid there for so damn long
I saw things come and leave
I saw things change and grow
And then there was only me

And if I could save myself from moving on Maybe I'll be younger than I ever was
Will you remember me when I'm gone?
And after that, and after that
And after that, and after that
