

Missing, You

Haley Joelle

When you put your arm around me outside that Atlanta bar
You acted like my jacket walking through that park
And I was so sure in that moment of the way we went so well
That still I can't imagine anything else

I moved on, or I tried to
But no one gets me like you do

Now that I know you exist
Nobody fits the same way as you did
I don't see the point in trying to re-create
You, it's a waste of time
It feels so different
Like something's missing, you
You

You even said I'd write about that night, drunk walking through the streets
I hate that you were right because it only proves to me
That maybe I shouldn't give up just yet, maybe I should be waiting
But you're the one who said it's complicated

So I moved on, or I tried to
But they don't get me like you do

Now that I know you exist
Nobody fits the same way as you did
I don't see the point in trying to re-create
You, it's a waste of time
It feels so different
Like something's missing, you
You
Like something's missing, you

And I know, and I know, and I know
It'll take some time
Take some time
But I know, but I know, but I know
That it won't feel right

'Cause now I know you exist
And nobody fits the same way as you did
I don't see the point in trying to re-create
You, it's a waste of time
It feels so different
Like something's missing, you
