Half Me

I've kept lying to myself, I've kept lying to you
There's no easy way out and nothing you can do
These wounds need time to heal
An ache that calls for ease
And as I try to soothe my pain
It won't stop to bleed

We are worn out, sober of regret
All or nothing, you could tell me how it ends
I've seen my demons take me from this place
I would yell in their faces to take me away

I let the emptiness consume me
A deafening nothingness is calling for me

I let the emptiness consume me
Wishing I would open my eyes on the other side
My consciousness has become a curse of mine
Now it's one of the many
I'm losing count like I'm losing my mind

I'm really losing it
Can't tell anymore
I always felt you only want me to bleed

It's alright, I take the blame for my mistakes
You're not the kind that would ever do the same, right?

Like I'm losing my mind

This is not getting to me
Still have a smile on my face, because I already dug my grave

It won't stop to bleed

We are worn out
Sober of regret
All or nothing
Let me show you how it ends
