

Then Again

Half Moon Run

Then again I thought it through
And again you'll be out on the edge of
Some great precipice
That would redefine
You again and leave me alone to catch up
You said a lot of things I don't understand
And you get a piece of me but I get an empty hand
And all of the pieces fit but that big picture's wrong
And it's something only I'll ever know

Guess I'm alone in this one
Nobody ever seems to know the right way
Yes, I'm alone in this one
Nobody ever seems to know the right way

Then I heard you speak
You know on certain terms
That again breathing just to see your own breath
You got a brand new start in a sunny southern town
Me in a touring van in hope but in doubt
That it'll get easier
Yet from time to time
I look back what a terrible waste

Guess I'm alone in this one
Nobody ever seems to know the right way
Yes, I'm alone in this one
Nobody ever seems to know the right way

Together we'll stop them all
Together we'll stop them all
The night's alright
Together we'll stop them all
The night's alright
Yeah, together we'll stop them all
The night's alright
Yeah, together we'll stop them all
The night's alright
