

Yosemite

half•alive

So
What is home now?
Scared
Of starting over
Forever lost
When you're a stranger
So how do I return to normal
After strange becomes familiar?

See the moon
In every moonrise
What it meant
Was held in your eyes
What's left
Is on its own time
I've ignored the place complete
I don't land back on my feet - oh

I filled myself up on you
I'll fill myself on better days
I filled myself upon you

Presently
It's hard to say goodbye
It's hard to say goodbye
Hard to say goodbye
It's hard to say goodbye

Hit the brakes
And jolt forward
Blurry gaze
And limp shoulder
What could've been
I couldn't reach
I didn't know that I could fall
Until I fell off from that peak

Yosemite
I'm on your time
I move slow
Pushing sunrise
I wanna know
What is heartache
When the earth aches
And my hands shake

I filled myself up on you
I'll fill myself on better days
I filled myself upon you

Presently
It's hard to say goodbye

I filled myself up on you
I'll fill myself on better days
It's hard to say goodbye
I filled myself upon you

Presently
It's hard to say goodbye
It's hard to say goodbye
Hard to say goodbye
It's hard to say goodbye
