

Always

HalfNoise

Even though I let you go
I wanted you to come back to me this time
And I know you wouldn't like to
We've gotta move from the memories that hold us back

You will always
You will always
You will always have the love that I gave you then
You will always
You will always
You will always have the love that I gave you then

I never seem to know
I'm always in the run
Even though I try
I never get it right
Even if you don't wanna let it go
You're gonna have to try sometimes, sometimes

You will always
You will always
You will always have the love that I gave you then
You will always
You will always
You will always have the love that I gave you then

You'll always (have the love that I gave you then)
You'll always, you'll always

You will always
You will always
You will always have the love...

You will always
You will always
You will always have the love that I gave you then
You will always
You will always
You will always have the love that I gave you then
