

One Will

Halford

I see the Gods in the arena
They stand beneath the blinding lights
The roar becomes a deafening silence
In reverence before the fights
One will live tonight, one will die tonight
One will stand and one will fall
One in victory, one in misery
Only one will take it all
Then all at once begins the rumble
A mass of body hits the floor
Locked in a battle, strength and honor
Blood, sweat and tears become the score
One will live tonight, one will die tonight
One will stand and one will fall
One in victory, one in misery
Only one will take it all
Yeah!
One will live tonight, one will die tonight
One will stand and one will fall
One in victory, one in misery
Only one will take it all
One will live tonight, one will die tonight
One will stand and one will fall
One in victory, one in misery
Only one will take it all
Yeah!