

Time Immemorial

HammerFall

One day, your dream
Will be gone without a warning
It's been the same since dawn of time
Don't turn your back
Try to cherish every morning
'Cause not a soul ever wins by playing small

Once I stood on a mountain
Reflecting, on who to be
Yes, we all have our own mountains to climb
To conquer to be, to be set free

Time is standing still for no one, constant is its chime
Since the birth of dawn we tried to pause the march of time

Deep down inside
Darkened clouds and stormy weather
When you stop your heart to rule your mind
Now where will you go
To the great unknown?
Or dwell upon the living and the dead
After life there's just silence
A life, a dream, you must see it through
It'll never return

Time is standing still for no one, constant is its chime
Since the birth of dawn we tried to pause the march of time

Time is standing still for no one, constant is its chime
Since the birth of dawn we tried to pause the march of time
Time is standing still for no one, constant is its chime
Since the birth of dawn we tried to pause the march of time
March of time
