

New Years Resolutions

Handguns

I left it all behind me tonight.
No, I don't hold regrets
I just think its for the best to let the past just be the past and I'm never going back there,
keep myself in tact, yeah.
To all my friends and enemies
this one's for you and the road that lies in front of me.
I set a fire to my heart to illuminate the dark and I used the lessons that I've learned to ignite this spark and now I know the way to go.
I'm not afraid of being alone.
I can't waste another day living life this way when the answer is staring me dead in the face.
Dowse my past in kerosene,
strike the match and burn away the memories.
I've learned a lot over the past few years.
This world is trying to test me but I'm still here.
I won't forget what I've sacrificed;
I won't stop putting up a fight.