

Sleep Deprived

Handguns

I won't forget the day that the fire in your eyes died.
I choked down the memories -
I said goodbye to you and me.
I just can't do this anymore -
The best of luck I hope you find what you've been searching for.

And I'm here to say

I'm done losing sleep over this
And every stupid thing that you did
And I'm done staying up all night
Wondering if I went about this right

Another night in a smoke filled bedroom.
It's kind of funny how it tends to come full circle.
You led me on for far too long.
I found the strength to walk away
And it hurts to say
That I looked up to you.

I'm done losing sleep over this
And every stupid thing that you did
And I'm done staying up all night
Wondering if I went about this right

I choked down those memories, I said goodbye

You let your vices take control of you
(Devil in disguise, I could see right through your eyes)
And I lost my faith in your point of view
And it hurts to say I looked up to you
(Devil in disguise, now I know you for who you really are)

You let your vices take control of you
(Devil in disguise, I could see right through your eyes)
And I lost my faith in your point of view
And it hurts to say I looked up to you
(Devil in disguise, now I know you for who you really are)

I'm done losing sleep over this
And every stupid thing that you did

I'm done losing sleep over this
And every stupid thing that you did
And I'm done staying up all night
Wondering if I went about this right
