

Vampires

Handsome Ghost

You've been pacing there for hours
We've been wasting everyday
Wearing holes within the floorboards
What else can we say

Something still to break the silence
There are spirits in this house
Sure the streets are filled with pirates
But honey, let's go out

I'm tired of living with these heavy eyelids
I'm tired of saying, hey, do you remember when
Moon is rising so, let's be vampires again

In the early winter snow fall
When the icing lines the street
I will find you by the window
Still and looking sweet

I'm tired of living with these heavy eyelids
I'm tired of saying, hey, do you remember when
Moon is rising so, let's be vampires again
I want to wake up on a distant highway
I'll take your photo where the shadows start to bend
Moon is rising so, let's be vampires again
...