Loose Talk

Hank Locklin

So long we've been married last burdens we've carried
Though fate kept us humble and made our love true
But plans that we'd make up someone seems to break up
So darling, what else can we do?

We may have to leave here to find piece of mind dear
Some place where we can live a life of our own
For I know you love me and happy we could be
If some folks would leave us alone.

We may have to leave here to find piece of mind dear
Some place where we can live a life of our own
For I know you love me and happy we could be
If some folks would leave us alone.

If some folks would leave us alone...
