

Too Much And Not Enough

Hannah Ellis

Wish I could say what I think
Not think about it when I leave
Or wanna text them and take it back

I wish I could think I was great
And not feel like I'm taking away
From a shine someone else should have

I'm always apologizing for being unapologetic, oh
How's a girl supposed to win I don't get it

I'm so sure of myself
And so insecure
I wish I could care less a little bit more
It's confusing as hell being constantly stuck
Between too much and not enough

I wish I could feel all my feelings
Not worry they're too much to deal with
What's a girl supposed to be when she's her own worst enemy

If I turn it up I see people stressing
If I tone it down I'm uninteresting
My biggest curse is my biggest blessing
Is it just me

I'm so sure of myself
And so insecure
I wish I could care less a little bit more
It's confusing as hell being constantly stuck
Between too much and not enough
Ooh ooh ooh

I'm always apologizing for being unapologetic, oh
Who I am could be enough if I let it

I'm so sure of myself
And so insecure
I wish I could care less a little bit more
It's confusing as hell being constantly stuck
Between too much and not enough

I'm opinionated and loud
And I'm not even drunk
I'm just too much and not enough
