

All I Know

Hanson

I hear my shoulders beg for rest
I can feel my beating heart pounding inside my chest
And I fear the future, so I hold it tight
Turn my ear to listen, but I can't hear a word tonight

So I try
And fail to get there
And I'm sure
That the end is coming soon
But with all I know
All I know
Is not enough

I have kept my secrets
But I've told few lies
Anyone can see the man that hides behind these eyes
Like an unknown question in an unseen light
Too many reasons
Hang over me tonight

But I try
And I fail to get there
And I'm sure
That the end will find me soon
With all I know
All I know
Is not enough
It's not enough

I've had enough
I'm tired of this kind of living
It's not enough
Something is bound to give in soon
I've had enough
I'm tired of this kind of living
'Cause all I know is not enough

I'm done with living in the past
Where anything I've done that's good I doubt will ever last
Well, I've earned my reasons, anyone can tell
But I'd be gladly parted of them for a chance to finish well

So I try
And I fail to get there
And I'm sure
That the end will be here soon
With all I know
All I know
With all I know
And all I know
Is not enough
