

No Matter The Reason

Hanson

I can't remember why the feeling came along to ruin the day
I started keeping track of all the hurtful things, you and I seem to like to say
But what am I gonna do, what am I gonna do with all this pain?
Still we keep pushing, we keep fighting, trying hard to reconcile our yesterdays

There's always reasons, reasons for leaving
We get caught up in the grievance instead of letting go
And the pain that you and I both feel
Is a pain I know our love can heal
So I won't be leaving, no matter the reason

Do you remember summer weather? Walking through New York together?
It seemed the skyline and the trees were smiling
Do you remember in the past
How we made the good things last?
God has made no better good than you for me

Oh, but tears are breaking through
Yeah, tears are breaking through
And I'm ashamed
Of all the foolish things I said
That were spinning 'round my head
How I wish that you would wash these tears away

'Cause there's always reasons, reasons for leaving
We get caught up in the grievance, and it won't let us go
'Cause the pain that you and I both feel
Is a pain I know our love will heal
So I won't be leaving, no matter the reason

No, I won't be leaving, no matter the reason
