

With You

Harrison Storm

3 weeks ago for both us
A mystery of falling in love
I don't know where it's going but I'm not fighting it
I know I need to thank the turn of luck
And the river that she floated up
I'm untying it all now, she's untying

Now that I feel like we're flying, no fear right
The moment she holds my heart
I know that she speaks with her eyes so I lean in
And see all her light and dark

With you
The world feels more alive
With you
The world feels more alive
The world feels more alive

I won't forget the night on the persian rug
And the way that we found more love
Souls aligned, hearts even, a new light
I know at times she feels outside her self
From the darker cards that life has dealt
She's unwinding softly, help her unwind

Now that I feel like we're flying, no fear right
The moments she held my heart
I know that she speaks with her eyes so I lean in
And see all her light and dark

With you
The world feels more alive
With you
The world feels more alive
The world feels more alive

One day we'll float down the river you wrote of
I hope I'll be holding your hand

With you
The world feels more alive
With you
The world feels more alive
The world feels more alive

With you
The world feels more alive
With you
The world feels more alive
The world feels more alive
