

Lighthouse

Harry Hudson

In the dead of the night are you up cause your mind is turning
Are the tears in your eyes from the pain that you can't explain
Do the people in your phone, only make you feel alone
Does it help you to know that we all got to tread the waves
Oh I, I've been where you are
Dancing with shadows in the dark
If the tide throws you in too deep
Take a deep breath right now and reach out for me
Cause we all get broken
Some of us don't show it
But we're still learning how
Maybe someday we'll find out
The waves get better when we're holding on together

No I won't let you drown
Let my love be your lighthouse

When the sun hits your face through the blinds on a Monday morn ing
Need a prayer and a coffee to make it through the day
And if you can't find the words
Go and listen to the birds
Pretty soon every sky that you see won't be so gray
Oh I, I've been where you are
Lost on a backroad, swerving through the dark
If the tides throw you in the deep
Take a deep breath right now and reach out for me
Cause we all get broken
Some of us don't show it
But we're still learning how
Maybe someday we'll find out
The waves get better when we're holding on together

No I won't let you drown
Let my love be your lighthouse
Love let my love
Let my let my let my love
Let my love be your lighthouse
Love let my love
Let my let my let my love
Let my love be your lighthouse
