

Dog Like Vultures

Haste the Day

Who will protect you from these dog like vultures?
And I know they're small but their teeth are sharp.

We've been sent with eyes to see them and ears to hear their steps.
Our hearts that are softer than the sheep.

We've been known to calm the storm and silence the ocean
with strength to spare you from their teeth.

Our eyes are upon you and we will protect you and be assured that no fang will breach your fleece

Because we are called to lead and sent to gather.
So, bare your teeth
and sharpen your claws.

We've been sent with eyes to see them
and ears to hear their steps.
Our hearts that are softer than the sheep

We've been known to calm the storm and silence the ocean.
With strength to spare you from their teeth.

From their teeth.
And their blood will spill like water in a fountain for thieves and liars.
So bare your teeth and sharpen your claws.
Because we hold the keys

And we've been sent with eyes to see them
and ears to hear their steps
and hearts are softer than the sheep.

We've been known to calm the storm and silence the ocean.
With strength to spare you from their teeth.
From their teeth.